We’re thrilled you’re interested in screening The Ants & The Grasshopper! Gathering (virtually or in-person) around a film is a powerful way to bring a necessary and complex conversation to your community, and to build the power of the frontline organizers and activists.

The film is available to screen via a digital link or DVD. Peace is Loud is happy to help every step of the way with accessing the film, planning your screening, and activating your audience to take further action.

Request a Screening
- You can request a screening by filling out this form, or by emailing kaitlyn@peaceisloud.org.

How to Screen
- The film is available as a digital streaming link or a DVD (standard definition and bluray). Please let us know if you require a downloadable link. We request that you delete the link and/or mail back your DVD after your event.
- After you submit your screening request, you can begin planning your event. Event planning may look different for different people, though it usually involves these steps:
  - Identify goals for your screening
  - Decide on date, time, and location for your event
  - Decide on your event format and choose a facilitator, moderator, panelists, etc.
  - Promote your screening
  - Execute your screening
• You can share the link individually with each of your audience members to watch on their own time, or you can watch it all together.
  ○ If you are screening virtually, you can download the film and show it via Zoom Advanced Video Share.
  ○ If you are screening in person, you can play the film on your computer, then attach your computer to the screening device via an HDMI cord, airplay, chrome cast, etc.
• Make sure to check out our suite of resources, including an action guide with discussion questions and action items.
• After your screening, Peace is Loud will send you a survey to learn about your event and the conversations that took place. This screening survey helps us understand the film’s specific impact, and we are very grateful for your participation.

Things to consider
• Please make sure your screening is accessible for your audience. If you are having an in-person screening, make sure the venue is wheelchair accessible. You may also consider having a place for nursing mothers to breastfeed. Regardless of if your screening is virtual or in-person, you may also consider having the captions on for the film, and/or language or deaf translation for the film and any Q&As or discussions that follow.
